

Volunteer Role Description

Volunteer Role Title: Helpline Volunteer

Minimum Commitment: One 3 hour shift/week for 6 months.

Aim of volunteering role: To provide confidential and unbiased help, information and support to people with OCD, carers and anyone who is concerned that they, or their friends and relatives may have OCD or a related disorder.

Tasks:

1. To receive and respond to helpline calls and emails by:
 - Listening to and taking details of the callers concerns & queries
 - Providing relevant information
 - Identifying those callers who meet the criteria for on-going support and outlining the service available; passing the callers details onto the Director
 - Responding to voicemails left on the helpline and to emails sent
2. To work within the policies and procedures of OCD Action.
3. To record requests for information packs
4. To keep a record of all calls, voicemails, emails using the call monitoring forms
5. Participate in debriefing sessions and volunteer training days

Skills needed:

1. An empathic, sensitive & non-judgemental attitude.
2. Personal experience of OCD either first hand or as a friend/family member of someone with the condition.

3. Maturity to deal with the emotional challenges of a busy helpline & to provide a calm compassionate response to callers.
4. Excellent communication & listening skills
5. Reliability
6. Good word processing/ IT skills

Place of work:

OCD Action office: Suite 506-507 Davina House, 137-149 Goswell Road, London EC1V 7ET.

Helpline Supervisor: Collette Byrne - 020 7253 5272

Benefits offered:

1. More than 30 hours of initial training
2. Ongoing support
3. Opportunity to develop your helpline skills and your understanding of the symptoms & treatment of OCD, its impact on the individual and their friends and family.
4. Expenses paid
5. Insurance cover

References:

Two references will be required. Ideally one of these should be a work related or 'professional' reference i.e. former employer, tutor, social worker, healthcare professional. The other should be from someone who has known you for over 2 years, (excluding family members).

April 2013

© OCD Action.